areas of the local rivers.

"They can go anywhere they want to go - as long as they are back by their appointed weigh-in time," Turner said.

There are many opportunities for people to both help and enjoy the Bassmaster Elite tournament.

"We're going to need a ton of volunteers," Turner said. They will be needed to greet tournament participants and spectators. People are needed to help set-up events, help direct people to locations and a host of other duties. There are still ways for local businesses and organizations to become involved, Turner said.

SummerFest needs crafters, artisans and food vendors (see page 2 of The Cecil Guardian for information on how to join the event).

Parking for spectators will be at Ritchie Brothers on US 40 with shuttle buses bringing people into North East. With the weigh-in at Anchor Marine and the festival in the nearby town park, there will also be a free shuttle loop between the tournament/festival area and North East's downtown.

Turner said there is still one major volunteer position to be filled.

"We need someone very good to be in charge of the weather," she said.
